

Design@Work

Course Brochure

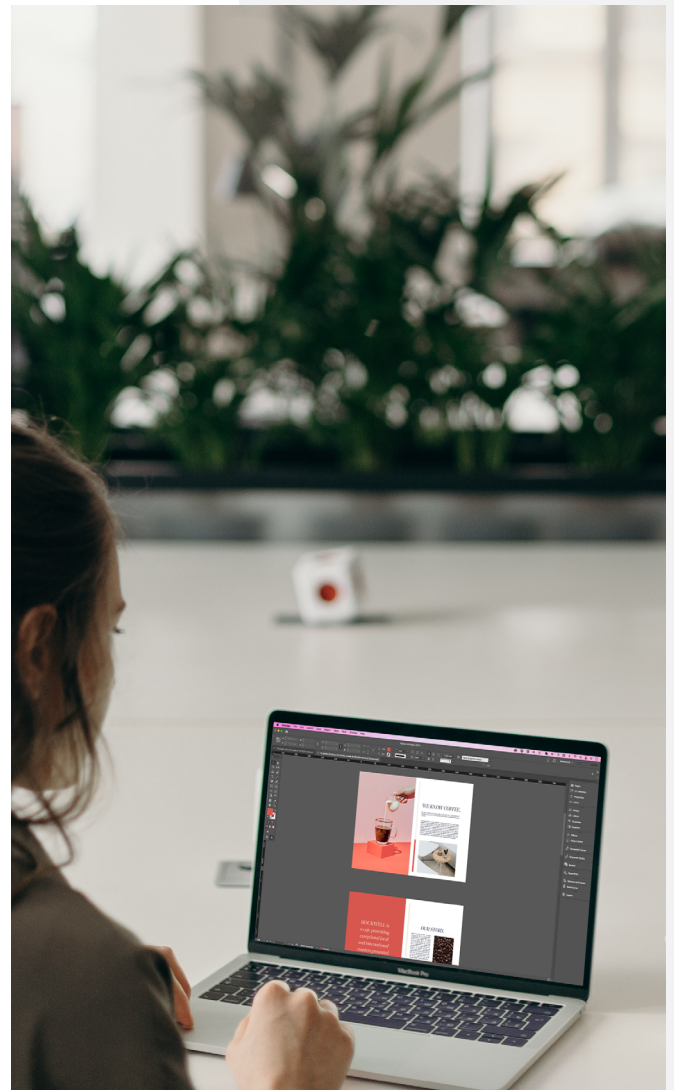

Entirely online and self paced you can fit it in at work, around work, when you want. If ever there were one — this is the ideal design course for non-designers.

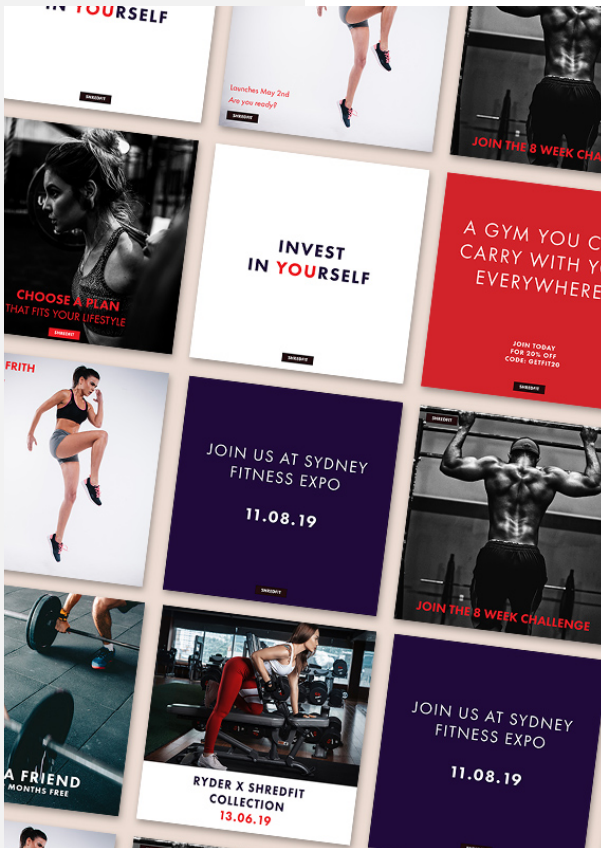

Who is this course for?

Does your job role rely on you to be "a little bit of a designer" yet you have no intention of becoming a fully fledged designer? Or are you an employer (minus the huge design budget) with an employee in mind that you would like to train to accomplish a few design tasks? If you've answered yes to either of the questions, then this is the course for you! Give me the skills, but don't make me think! We hear you!

The Design@Work course takes on a "paint by numbers" approach to design. We provide you with a range of beautiful, workplace related templates and we teach you the Adobe tools you need to customise and apply your content to them. Easy peasy!

Our video tutorials will guide you through (in a very systematic, step by step approach) the process of customising a variety of templates, thus making them your own — it's that simple! You'll learn the tools, apply images, type and colour of your choosing and voila, you've got yourself a brochure, flyer, business card — the list goes on. We even teach you how to develop your own colour palettes, source eye-catching imagery, typefaces and fonts as well as how to use your company's existing resources. Fancy that.

Free yourself from Word & PowerPoint.

Microsoft Word and PowerPoint were not made to be design tools. Even the best designer would receive a very average design result using these programs. Great results require the right tools. Enter the Adobe suite. During the course you will be working with Adobe InDesign to accomplish your designs.

InDesign is what we call a 'multi page layout program'. This means that you can create documents featuring one or more pages. InDesign is the industry's go-to tool for creating type-heavy projects and can also accept both vector & pixel based graphics.

InDesign is very intuitive and can be used at both beginner and advanced levels. Using the InDesign programme during the course gives you the opportunity to expand your skills at work and in play. That's tonnes of scope and a world of creative possibilities. You will also be eligible to subscribe to the Adobe Creative Cloud at student rates.

How does it work?

As this course is self-paced and online you can fit it in at work, around work — whenever you want. We'll give you an entire year to access the course, leaving it open to you so that you can continue to utilise the resources and templates at your leisure.

What will I learn?

As you use the wide range of FREE templates for work, we will also be teaching you lots of other useful design stuff too.

Here is the course broken down:

- Using tools and menus.
- Working with images and type.
- Working with colour and colour tools.
- How to create documents with impact.
- Using templates for quick design.
- How to make your own templates for repeatable, refined layouts.

Can I get recognition for all of my hard work?

Absolutely!

Even though most people will be completing the course to learn a Design@Work set of skills, we do offer the optional choice for students to submit a set of 3 designs that they have completed as part of their final assessments in Module 2.

Successful completion of these assessments will achieve a Certificate of Completion accompanied by an Accredited Statement of Attainment.

The following 5 Units of Competency listed make up the Statement of Attainment:

- ICPPRP224 Create pages using a page layout application
- CUAPPR411 Realise a creative project
- CUAGRD311 Prepare Files for Print
- BSBWRT411 Write complex documents
- CUADIG304 Create visual design components

The option to submit assessments is free. We will require you to let us know when you are ready to submit your designs as outlined in the assessment pages. You will answer a few questions and enroll in the assessment part of the course. There will be prompts throughout your course to guide you through the process – super easy! Assessment submission can happen any time you are ready to submit.

The only requirement is that you submit within the year you are enrolled. Your course will remain open to you for one whole year regardless of whether you submit early or later on in your enrolment period.

Do I have to submit assessments?

You may decide not to submit assessments at all, it's your choice completely. However, if you would like to obtain a Certificate of Completion and Statement of Attainment as recognition of your hard work, you have that option too.

How much does it cost?

$1500 upfront or $550 per month for 3 months.
